

What's the Buzz?

with Deez L'Town Beez

Hello friends and fellow keepers!

We're steadily moving through the season and heading into my favorite time of the year...County Fair Season. While I do love the cooler temps and watching the bees stockpile their fall harvest, I've come to especially enjoy participating at the fairs.

As beekeepers, this is our time to shine and learn. Volunteering to work at the ASMB honey booth, speaking with the public about our passion for beekeeping, and getting involved have made the last six years the most rewarding time of my life.

I used to be painfully shy, but beekeeping has helped me out-grow that. I found a way to connect with people about something I really love - The Mighty Honey Bee!

Even as a first-year beekeeper, you already know considerably more than the general public and can absolutely get involved in these fun and rewarding events.

The first of the three SoMD fairs begins with Charles County and the entry date for exhibitors is September 13th. If you are a beekeeper, this is your day to enter honey, photographs, wax products, and more. Check the fair book or the Charles County Fair 2023 website for more information. Pay close attention as entry information may vary at each fair. We will be accepting your best honey and hive product exhibits from 1-8pm.

Judging takes place the following morning and ribbons and awards are placed afterward. Fair gates open at 4pm. The buildings open at 5pm Thursday Sept.14th until Sunday the 17th. Bee sure to reach out to the Association of Southern Maryland Beekeepers at asmbeekeepers@gmail.com if you aren't already a member, sign up & volunteer.

Happy Keeping!
