

What's the Buzz?

with Deez L'Town Beez

Remarkable Beauty

~ by Diane Wellons

Often as a beekeeper, I am struck by the remarkable beauty of the natural world around me. I might find myself standing in a field of wildflowers with the bees buzzing around me or next to a barn with a living working farm raising crops of beautiful food for the community. I am a part of those natural living spaces that surround me, connected to the earth and my food. I also feel as connected to/as close to whatever concept I have in my own mind of The Creator as I can be. It is one of the reasons I love beekeeping and the journey this hobby has taken me on. That connection brings peace, tranquility, and a grounded balance to my life and I appreciate it more every day. The people I meet and the care and concern they all have for the mighty honey bee impress me routinely.

Every now and again I will have one of those moments that I know, without a doubt is such a rarity that it will be a once-in-a-lifetime event. I had one of those happenings recently and I want to share that experience with you, dear beekeeper readers, whom I know can appreciate the significant beauty of such an occurrence.

continue reading

Follow us @deezltownbeez.com

STUFF YOU'RE GOING TO WANT TO KNOW ABOUT

POP-UP Class: Bee Keeping for a Day
November 5

Upcoming Class: Making Products from the Hive
November 20

Winter is coming. Make sure you choose a varroa treatment. To wrap or not to wrap? That is the question.

Suttler Post Farm is hosting a Holiday Open House to Benefit Hospice where we will have a booth. Stop by & see us!
December 10 & 11, 11am-4pm

Oxalic Acid treatments available...visit my site for more details.

The Maryland State Beekeepers Association \(MSBA\) Meeting and Honey Show is
November 12

The next ASMB Meeting at the Charlotte Hall Library is January 14, 9-12pm