Honey I'm Home!

The 2023 honey harvest is here! We've pulled in 250 pounds of light golden honey from the yard to try to give the queens some space to lay their eggs. Since the nectar flow happened early and everything is blooming at one time, we've got the lightest honey I've ever seen in my apiary. I'm guessing it's because we have so many black locust trees. Whatever the reason, it's delicious. You can get it at our pop-up markets or the website.

What the www is going on?

You may have noticed our website has said, "Coming Soon". This was due to the webmaster company transitioning from one platform to another. We've had a few hiccups, but we hope you'll like the look and new functionality of the new site. Check it out here and let us know what you think. And while you're at it, go to this link and leave us a Google review!

Do You Need Some Help?

I'm here to help you and offer farm call services. If you get into trouble, need assistance with your hives, or just want a mentor, call or email me! Deezltownbeez@gmail.com 240-925-1944 $75 plus mileage from Leonardtown.

I Need Some Help!

Do you know anyone looking for a summer job? I've got yard work, chicken chores, gardening, and other odd jobs. Perfect gig for high schooler or college student home for the summer!
